She said the teaching profession is overcrowded and offers little chance for advancement.

Several other members of the delegation appealed to the commission to hire Negroes on the basis of their qualifications and ability to do a job.

This group, it was pointed out are not doing "menial tasks" but hold positions of responsibility in the juvenile department, health department, welfare department and other departments.

After hearing the delegation, the commission noted that the presentation was well presented and effective. The board indicated that it will take action to notify its department heads that it is receptive to employment of additional negro workers.

In the meantime, the commission made available to delegation spokesmen, its registry of jobs so that negro applicants could file requests for employment.

Of the 115 negro employees, on the county payroll at the present time, wage scales run from $439 to $184 per month, payroll records disclosed.

In spite of prospects for reduced citrus crops in Florida for the next few years, it looks like this is no time to slacken the drive to hold our markets.

Spokesmen for the industry have been pointing out there is an urgent need for maintaining in the public mind a strong image of the value of Florida citrus and its products.

If there are any "doubting Thomases" who think the task will be an easy one, and won't require every ounce of effort that can be put behind it, let them note the following editorial from a leading food trade paper:

"In Florida," says the mid-June issue of The Produce News, there seems to be some concern, not worry, just concern, over the inroads of other drinks taking the place of citrus in the big markets. The Dec. 14 freeze that hit some 70 per cent of the crop has afforded other beverages the opportunity to slake consumers' thirst while Florida oranges are either absent, or present but not attractive.

The other fruit juices, real and manufactured, have come on fast, as have the fruit 'drinks', whatever chemical mixture they may be. Consumers are not sold on any health value in the frozen concentrate, and, lacking that great prop, they feel any drink will do, particularly if it is more attractively colored and more exotically flavored. Fresh? Well, these other drinks out of a can or bottle are just as 'fresh' as frozen goo out of a metal container.

"It is a sad fact that many of the oranges now shipped fresh out of Florida leave much to be desired. Housewives find them dry and very unreliable; it is a morning's work to squeeze a glassful of fresh juice. Four oranges yesterday morning made one small glassful of only fair tasting juice, and the cost was 17c.

"These facts are put down more in sorrow than anger. It all means that, when Florida can again produce fine fruit, she will have a tremendous job of rebuilding her fruit's place in the market and in the home. We think it can be done by rebuilding not on the basis of better canning and freezing, but on the basis that nothing tastes as good or is as good for you as Fresh fruit direct from the grove."

Incidentally, I note that synthetic soft drinks are under attack in South Africa. A legislator there stated the drinks were invading that market to the detriment of the country's health and to the economic disadvantage of the fruit farmer.

He suggested a tax on all synthetic drinks which did not contain a proportion of natural fruit juices.

Something new is on the way for Florida's watermelon industry.

According to a recent report, a Texas machinery manufacturer is making an electronic watermelon sizing device for one of our Immokalee growers. A million pounds of melons already have been handled by the machine in one Texas area. The electronic sorter divides a load in the field according to predetermined sizes. Its "memory" lines determine where the melons will be routed as they come off conveyor belts after being weighed. There's an average tolerance of about 4 pounds per melon, but loads appear uniform even though weights may vary from 24 to 28 pounds.

The automatic sizing will permit retailers to sell at unit prices. Grading to eliminate culls is done by sight as employees affix labels by hand. The manufacturer claims the same principal can be used for sizing cantaloupes, and is working on development of electronic, transistorized equipment to handle other perishable crops.

Another new development that came to my attention is an "instantized" flour, product of a big national milling firm. It is granular in texture, is said to pour as easily as salt, is dust-free and disperses in liquids without lumping. It is expected to get one of the biggest advertising pushes ever put behind a food product and may be on the market this month. (July).

Corvair 700 Club Coupe

The hardest part about parking a Corvair is finding a nickel

That may be a slight overstatement, but such jauntiness comes easily when you're a Corvair owner.

And you can usually back it up—as easily as you can back up a Corvair. You'll find yourself doing that occasionally, if only to adjust the brakes—they're self-adjusting. That's all there is to it, and that's a good example of how delightfully easy Corvair is to own, drive and maintain.

But since we began by talking about driving, let's stick with that awhile. A large factor in the fun of driving a Corvair is the location of its engine in the rear. Why the rear? It gives Corvair extra traction on any road surface. It provides a nearly flat floor for more useable interior space. Best of all, it produces steering so light, so responsive, you wonder why no other American-made car thought of it.

Corvair's engine is also air cooled, we might add, which means there's no anti-freeze or water for you to add. Ever.

All that pleasure from something so practical almost makes you think Corvair is unique among American cars. Which isn't surprising, because it is!

Here Is What Transpired At Monday's Meeting Of The Palm Beach County Commission

The Palm Beach County Commission Monday approved resolution which created four fire control districts which will allow levying taxes to help finance volunteer fire department operations.

Authority to create the districts was granted in an act passed by the last legislature.

Departments, under the act, petition the commission for creation of a district, after which a public hearing is called.

There were no objections Monday on four petitions considered by the board which approved resolutions for the Military Park, Westward Volunteers, Southwest Volunteers and Trail Park Volunteers.

At the same time, the board approved volunteer fire department recommendations for supervisors to be named by the governor. The list will be forwarded to the Governor for his action.

The act, as far as levying taxes is concerned, will not become effective until next year.

An administrative change in operation of the County Welcome Station was approved by the County Commission Monday.

At the request of the West Palm Beach Chamber of Commerce, which has been operating the station for several years through funds made available by the county commission, the county board voted to take over the operation as of July 31.

The board said employees of the Welcome Station will be put on the county payroll to assure these workers of insurance and other employee benefits. Further the board voted to turn actual operation of the station over to a county-wide committee made up of Chamber of Commerce officials, Richard Pilger of the county industrial information service and Art Keil, Resources Development Board. The steering committee will be asked to make a recommendation for a manager at the station and for employment of other personnel.

County Commissioners are scheduled to meet during the week with representatives of engineering firms seeking to complete a water study survey for the county.

The water survey project has been pushed by Commissioner George Warren, who said the first phase of the job will be to find a suitable water supply to take care of the county's growth for the next 50 years.

Following procurement of these findings, aid will be asked of the Federal government to continue research and study for a water and sewer control system on a county level rather than on a subdivision level.

The board voted that no firm should be hired for the original survey work unless the full five member commission was present at the meeting. The vote on this move was brought about when it was called to the board's attention that it was "vacation time" for the commission.

Anita Lee Cowart Weds W. E. Lerdon

The marriage of Miss Anita Lee Cowart and Wesley Emile Lerdon was solemnized in a candlelight ceremony at the First Methodist Church, Pahokee, on Saturday, July 6, at 7:30 p. m. Rev. Robert A. Shelley performed the double ring ceremony before an altar lighted with branched candelabra and decorated with sunburst arrangements of white June Belle gladioli, stock and chrysanthemums against a background of palms. Family pews were marked with white satin ribbon and pom-poms.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Marvin Cowart of Pahokee, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Emile Lerdon, Winter Haven.

The program of nuptial music was presented by Mrs. Sheppard Pitts, Jr., organist, and Milton Carpenter, soloist, who sang "Because God Made You Mine," "Whither Thou Goest," and "The Wedding Prayer."

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was gowning in a floor length sheath of white silk bridal taffeta, designed with fitted bodice and a sideslit skirt, banded with re-embroidered Alencon lace, ending in a cathedral train. Her bouffant veil of silk illusion was attached to a miniature pillbox of white bridal taffeta. She carried a cascade bouquet of white Alba lilies and lilies of the valley with white satin leaves entwined with rope pearls.

The maid of honor, Miss Jeanette Spooner of Fort Myers, cousin of the bride, wore a dress of light turquoise silk chiffon over taffeta, fashioned with new lifted waistline, enhanced by a full length sheer stole. Her circular veil of malene was attached to a tiara of pearls and crystal. Her bouquet was a cascade of purple orchids and turquoise Scotch broom.

Mrs. Gwen Levins, matron of honor, and the junior bridesmaid, Miss Debbie Cowart, sister of the bride, wore gowns and carried bouquets similar to those of the maid of honor.

Carl Jackson, Jr. of Winter Haven served as best man, and ushers were Jan Valk of Winter Haven, and Michael Cowart, brother of the bride.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Cowart chose a sheath of silk chiffon in deep turquoise, with shirred bodice and matching accessories. Her hat was designed with three flat bows and brief malene veil. The mother of the groom wore a dress of mauve lace and silk organza with matching accessories. Corsages of lavender cattleya orchids completed the costumes of both.

Assisting at the reception in the social hall were Mrs. Paul Rardin, Miss Linda Hand at the bride's book, Mrs. Billy Turbeville, Mrs. Chester Mullis, Mrs. Robert Meyers, and the Misses Gail Johnson, Linda Sellers and Linda Spooner.

The bride's table was laid with a white cloth of embroidered organdy over white satin and centered with an epergne holding white roses, stock and purple cattleya orchids. Tapers in two five-branched candelabra lighted the scene. The bride's book table was laid with a white organdy overskirt over satin and centered with a turquoise rice-tree holding individual rice bags. The four-tiered wedding cake was topped with white Alba lilies.

The bride is a graduate of Pahokee High School, and Massey Business College, Jacksonville. She studied with the Imperial Studios in Palm Beach, was associated with the Free Lance Professional Models of Palm Beach.

The bridegroom graduated from Georgia Institute of Technology, Atlanta, Ga. with a B. S. degree, majoring in industrial design option of the School of Architecture.

Following a wedding trip to New York and Canada, the couple will make their home at King Edward Annex, Apt. 34, 225 Melwood Ave., Pittsburg, Pa., where he is industrial designer and architect with Peter-Muller Monk Associates.
